

The School of Education and the Office of International Programs at Drexel University presents

Global Education Colloquium (GEC) Brown Bag Lunch Series

Human Rights Education: Mapping the Field

Register Now

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 2017

5 – 6 pm

Drexel University Washington, DC Center
Lafayette Tower, Suite 420 | 801 17th Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20006

Featured Speaker

Monisha Bajaj, University of San Francisco, Comparative and International Education Society

In this talk, Monisha Bajaj discusses the field of human rights education (HRE)—its origins, development and current trends in research and practice. She will provide information about the rise of the field and how it has gained popularity while also tracing different perspectives on what constitutes valid human rights education scholarship. Dr. Bajaj will also highlight insights and lessons from her new book Human Rights Education: Theory, Research, Praxis that seeks to be a foundational textbook for students and scholars of HRE.

About the Global Education Colloquium

The GEC is composed of faculty, students and community members who make global education their central focus for research and teaching, and those who incorporate global and education analysis into their areas of primary pursuit.

GEC events are held the third Tuesday of every month on the main campus of Drexel University. You are invited to bring your lunch.

► Event will be webcast live through the website.

REGISTRATION IS ENCOURAGED: SurveyMonkey.com/r/gec102517

To access the event via the live webcast, copy the link into your browser: youtube.com/watch?v=J-RSJImCVE4

For more information, call 215-895-6770, email keiser@drexel.edu or visit drexel.edu/soe/GEC.

DREXEL UNIVERSITY
School of Education

south asia center

MIDDLE EAST
CENTER

DREXEL UNIVERSITY
Office of International Programs