Featured Speaker

Emily Anderson, PhD, Associate Professor of Education Studies, Centenary University

The Millennium Development Goals' (MDGs) inclusion of girls as a specific population target represented a significant shift in the way that gender was used as an organizing framework in international education policy and development. Grounded in a critical feminist discursive institutional perspective, this presentation will purposely interrogate the discourse construction of girls as a target population in international education policy and development during the MDGs.

Emily Anderson is currently an Associate Professor of Education Studies at Centenary University, transitioning to Florida International University in 2019 as a Visiting Assistant Professor of International and Intercultural Education
