You're Invited to an Upcoming Webinar!

HOW IS IT ONLY JANUARY?
Survival Strategies for the Classroom Teacher

Tuesday, January 19, 2021 at 7:00 p.m. ET

Presented by:

Amanda L. Lannie, PhD, BCBA-D
Assistant Clinical Professor, Drexel University School of Education

Bridget Blakely, PhD, BCBA
Assistant Clinical Professor, Drexel University School of Education

Classroom teachers are consistently tasked with a multitude of expectations. In order to accomplish all of the daily responsibilities, behavior management is a necessary component of the classroom. Whether teaching kindergarten or at a high school level or any grade level in between, simple, consistent classroom practices can ensure that behavior challenges do not disrupt the demands of the school day.

This presentation will discuss basics of behavior management in a classroom setting and provide efficient tools that will ensure the school day is filled with learning and not just redirections.

Register Today!
Online.Drexel.Edu/Survival-Strategies

Drexel UNIVERSITY | ONLINE