Why Teach for Creativity: The Importance of a Creative Mindset, Environment, Tools and Action

Presented by Larry Keiser, PhD
Assistant Clinical Professor, Drexel University's School of Education

THURSDAY, APRIL 8, 2021 | 3 P.M. ET

What is creativity and why is having a Creativity Mindset critical to infusing creativity and innovation into teaching grades K-12 as well as college students?

What does a creative classroom, school or learning environment look and feel like?

This 45-minute session will provide answers to these questions while providing specific takeaways for educational leaders and teachers to use to begin developing creative work and learning environments.
