The Center for Interdisciplinary Studies, the Department of History, and the CNHP Board of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion present

A Screening & Discussion of 2021 Academy Award Nominee

With Susan Schweik, Ph.D.
Department of English, University of California, Berkeley.

Schweik, a Disability Studies scholar, played an advisory role in the early stages of the making of Crip Camp. In her discussion, she examines the importance, production, and reception of the documentary—including its remarkable achievements, and the stories that didn't make it to the screen.

Thursday, Oct. 21, 2:00 pm (talk at 4:00 pm)

Liberty View Room, Macalister Hall, 6th floor & via Zoom
