Championing Reproductive Justice: Advocacy Workshop

Interested in learning more about health-related social justice advocacy? Want to understand how domestic health issues are also global? Join the inaugural health and human rights advocacy workshop! This year's theme is "championing reproductive justice." We will be joined by US and global experts on advocacy and reproductive health. The workshop will consist of a keynote speech and informational lectures, followed by an interactive session working through a case study on access to reproductive health services.

Speakers and facilitators:

Dázon Dixon Diallo, Founder and President, SisterLove, Inc. (Keynote speaker)

Megan McLemore, Health and human rights expert (former Human Rights Watch) (Facilitator)

Nina Sun, Deputy Director, Global Health and Assistant Clinical Professor, Community Health and Prevention (Facilitator)

Saturday, 22 January, 9am – 1pm

Via Zoom – register here

Cosponsored by:

Drexel University Office of Global Health, Dornsife School of Public Health

Drexel University Thomas R. Kline School of Law, Center for Law, Policy, and Social Action

Drexel University Ubuntu Center on Racism, Global Movements and Population Health Equity, Dornsife School of Public Health

Drexel University Maternal and Child Health Program, Dornsife School of Public Health

Office of Global Health
Drexel Dornsife School of Public Health, Nesbitt Hall, 3215 Market St., Philadelphia, PA, 191040