Learn About the Patient Experience at a Dispensary with Lauren Vrabel, Pharm-D

Sponsored by Drexel University's Medical Cannabis Research Center

Lauren Vrabel is a cannabis pharmacist from Pittsburgh, PA. She graduated from Duquesne University and previously worked in retail pharmacy before she began working in the Pennsylvania Medical Marijuana Program in 2018. Since then, she has gained experience in many different aspects of the cannabis industry, as the role of the pharmacist continues to change. Lauren started the first pharmacy student rotations in Pennsylvania and lectures at the University of Pittsburgh School of Pharmacy on cannabis therapeutics. Lauren is a Scientific Advisor at The Cannigma which is a science-based cannabis resource for consumers, and she is a member of Doctors for Cannabis Regulations as well as their liaison to the ASTM International D37 Committee on Cannabis.

Lauren will be speaking on what new patients can expect during their first trip to the dispensary. This will include consultations with a pharmacist, different product forms, and other important information to help understand what it is like to be a medical cannabis patient.
