THE ENVIRONMENT'S PEOPLE PROBLEM (AND HOW TO SOLVE IT)

A showcase of environmental research in the social sciences, humanities and arts at Drexel, featuring opportunities for student involvement.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 2024
PAPADAKIS INTEGRATED SCIENCES BUILDING

3:30–4:45 P.M. | Lightning Talks
5–6 P.M. | Meet-ups with Researchers

REGISTER BY OCTOBER 4

https://tinyurl.com/epp-event

LIGHTNING TALK LINE-UP

SOCIAL DRIVING FORCES OF GLOBAL CLIMATE CHANGE
Xiaorui Huang, Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology

INSTITUTIONAL SUSTAINABILITY STRATEGIES: DREXEL'S CLIMATE ACTION PLAN
Jen Britton, Executive Director, Sustainable Development Strategy, Drexel Climate and Sustainability

PROMOTING CLIMATE JUSTICE PEDAGOGY ACROSS THE CURRICULUM
Drexel Climate Pedagogy Incubator: Magdalena Maczynska, Mira Olson, Cassidy Joyce, and Abby Holmberg

LDLC LAB FOR URBAN ECOSYSTEM RESILIENCE & ECOLOGICAL COMMUNITY JUSTICE
Scott Quitel, Associate Teaching Professor/Restoration Ecologist, Close School of Business

REPRODUCING ENVIRONMENTAL SACRIFICE ZONES
Amanda McMillan Lequieu, Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology

PLANETARY HEALTH: HUMAN AND MORE-THAN-HUMAN PERSPECTIVES
Alberto Morales, Assistant Professor, Global Studies and Modern Languages and Center for Science, Technology, & Society

THE POLITICS OF VISUAL STORYTELLING IN WILD HORSE ADVOCACY CAMPAIGNS
Christian Hunold, Professor of Political Science

NARRATING CLIMATE CHANGE: THE IMPORTANCE OF STORYTELLING
Magdalena Maczynska, Teaching Professor, Department of English and Philosophy
Associate Director, Teaching and Learning Center

ENVIRONMENTAL ACTIVISM THROUGH FILM
Ben Kalina, Professor and Documentary Filmmaker, Film and Television Department, Westphal College of Media Arts and Design

INDIGENOUS ECOLOGICAL RESURGENCE
Andrew Smith, Professor of Philosophy and Environmental Studies

LABOR, CLIMATE CHANGE, AND ENVIRONMENT; AND FIGHTING BIG PLASTIC
Dr. Diane Sicotte, Professor of Sociology

MAKING ENERGY RIGHTS
Ali Kenner, Associate Professor, Department of Politics and Center for Science, Technology, and Society

SCIENCE SHOP: PARTICIPATORY RESEARCH FOR ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE
Alexis Schulman, Director, Department of Environmental Policy, Planning and Innovation, Academy of Natural Sciences

SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY, AND ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE
Gwen Ottinger, Professor of Politics and Environmental Studies

The Environment's People Problem is sponsored by the Department of Biodiversity, Earth and Environmental Science, offering a B.A. in Environmental Studies and Sustainability (ENSS). The ENSS program prepares environmental professionals whose awareness of structural inequality, cultural difference, and cutting-edge science equip them to lead collaborative, multi-stakeholder processes of change.

DREXEL UNIVERSITY
Department of Biodiversity, Earth and Environmental Science
College of Arts and Sciences