Leaders' Role in Recognizing and Responding to Distress and Promoting Wellbeing

Tuesday, January 26, 2021 | 7:00 p.m. ET

Employees in patient and direct service roles have been emotionally, mentally, physically, and behaviorally affected by the pandemic. Many of the previously considered psychological aspects of trauma, moral distress and PTSD are showing up in the workforce today and affecting employees as well as leaders. This webinar presents an approach that leaders can take to noticing these symptoms and supporting employees as well as their own wellbeing as leaders.

Presented by:

Dr. Wendy Combs
System Vice President, Learning and Development, Common Spirit Health

Adjunct Professor, Human Resource Development and Educational Leadership and Management, Drexel University
